WELCOME

The 2015/16 curling season is now in full swing and already a great deal has happened on and off the ice.

Our qualifying events are complete, with the 2015 Pacific-Asia and Le Gruyère European Curling Championships topping the bill.

Well done to all the teams who have won medals and who have qualified for the forthcoming World Curling Championships.

We are now ready for our World Curling Championships to begin, but before that, we have the exciting addition of the Winter Youth Olympic Games \(YOG\), which will be held in Lillehammer in the next couple of weeks (12-21 February 2016).

2016 is an extra special year for the World Curling Federation, as we mark our 50th anniversary, and it is with great anticipation that I look forward to the celebrations.

Off the ice, at the end of 2015, attention was on brush head technology resulting in a moratorium being issued, prohibiting the use of certain brush heads, for the remainder of the season.

The purpose of this moratorium is to ensure a fair and level playing field within our sport and that athletic performance and mental skill remain the dominant elements for success.

You will find more information on the activity of the World Curling Federation and you, our Member Associations, later in this Newsletter.

I hope you enjoy reading this edition, and remember you can read more about each story by clicking on the images.

Qualification events set the scene for World Curling Championships to come

The first half of the season has seen our European C-Division, World Wheelchair-B, Pacific-Asia, Le Gruyère European and World Junior-B Curling Championships take place.

My congratulations go to all the medallists and Member Associations who have earned a chance to compete at World Curling Championships, or at a higher level of international competition, later this year, and to the host nations who have put-on these first-class events.

There have been many highlights already. Here are some of my stand out moments from 2015/16 so far:

I was delighted to see that a record 15 teams took part in the World Wheelchair-B Curling Championship 2015 at the Kisakallio Sports Institute in Lohja, Finland, where the World Junior-B event was also held. This is pleasing given the increased number of teams that will compete at the Paralympic Winter Games in Pyeongchang in 2018.

In November, Kazakhstan hosted their first international curling event, the Pacific-Asia Curling Championships 2015, at the Balaun Sholak Sports Palace, in Almaty. Viktor Kim, General Secretary of the Kazakhstan Curling Association and the army of volunteers he recruited did a sterling job delivering a memorable event. Also, in Almaty Hong Kong competed for the first time in an international curling championship.

The Le Gruyère European Curling Championships 2015 also took place in November, in Esbjerg, Denmark. It was a pleasure to welcome Crown Prince Frederik of Denmark (pictured below) to open the event and deliver the first ceremonial stone, having fulfilled the same duty at the Capital One World Women's Curling Championship in 2011.

The ECC 2015 was a historic event for Finnish curling as their women's team won their first ever medal (pictured above), after beating hosts Denmark 10-8 in the Bronze Medal Game. The Finnish side was skipped by Oona Kauste and made up of third Milja Hellsten, second Maija Salmiovirta, lead Marjo Hippo and Jenni Rasanen, as alternate.

I'm looking forward to the many more memories to come, during the remainder of the season.

DEVELOPMENT

Our Competitions and Development Officers (CDO) are responsible for growing and developing curling around the world. Here are some highlights from their season so far, plus opportunities for you, our Member Associations, to get involved with.

Olympic Celebration Tour hits Milwaukee and Durham, USA

The Milwaukee Curling Club (MCC), Cedarburg, Wisconsin, the oldest curling club in the USA hosted the first Olympic Celebration Tour (OCT) stop of the season, in November 2015. Olympic Bronze medallist and World Champion Sebastian Kraupp and CDO Darrell Ell delivered the event at MCC's brand new curling facility.

The tour stop started on Friday with a visit to Homestead High School, where one student posted an article and photos on the event in the school newspaper

Saturday morning was reserved for Junior Curlers, with the future champions all enjoying the chance to take some pointers from the Olympian. The adult club members then had an opportunity to go through some cold and warm side technical and strategy sessions.

The second OCT event took place at the Triangle Curling, Durham, North Carolina, USA, with Vancouver 2010 Silver medallist Carolyn McRorie.

If you are interested in hosting your own Olympic Celebration Tour this season please contact CDO darrell.ell@worldcurling.org

Is your club membership growing? What is your volunteer base? Do you have a sponsorship package and how successful are you at attracting new sponsors?

These are just a few of the topics that could be on the agenda if you were to host a Business of Curling Workshop. All you need is a meeting space for 25 participants for a weekend. The WCF will provide the facilitator.

www.worldcurling.org

You would be required to advertise and coordinate the registration of the participants who would ideally come from your club and others nearby.

For more information about this programme, or if you would like to host a Business of Curling Symposium for your club, your association or in partnership with other associations please contact CDO, darrell.ell@worldcurling.org

Curling courses delivered in 2018 Olympic host city, PyeongChang

Early December saw the Korea Wheelchair Curling Association host CDOs Eeva Röthlisberger and Scott Arnold over five days to present courses on wheelchair instruction and umpiring.

Members of the PyeongChang Organizing Committee for the 2018 Olympic and Paralympic Winter Games were in attendance as well as participants from numerous disabled sports organisations, able-body and wheelchair athletes.

All in all, 27 people took part in the Wheelchair Instructor Course and 29 attended the Umpiring course. My thanks go to President Choi Jung Gil and Secretary General Mi sung Shin for organising these successful courses.

Many medications available for common medical conditions, such as asthma or hayfever, may contain prohibited substances.

Athletes need to be aware that these are readily available in products prescribed by their doctor or bought over the counter in a pharmacy.

The advice to athletes from the World Curling Federation is to check every single substance or medication before you use it, even if you have used it before. It is also important to remember that medications bought abroad may contain different substances than those in your own country and you should always check before you take them.

The 2016 Prohibited List and other resources can be found on the WCF website

The WCF Anti-Doping Rules 2015 v5.0 can be found on the WCF website

YOUR NEWS

Ukrainian Curling Championship 2015 held in Kiev

by Natalia Menzhega

The first Ukrainian Curling Championship took place in Kiev this December, held under the auspices of the Ministry of Youth and Sports of Ukraine and the Ukrainian Curling Federation

Five men's teams competed from December 14 to 18 December 2015 at the Katok Ice Arena, while four women's teams started on 21 December 2015.

According to President of Ukrainian Curling Federation Alex Perevezentsev, this first-ever Championship is an important step for promotion of curling in Ukraine, as at least two ice arenas are interested in maintaining ice for curling and holding tournaments.

Curling in Western Australia

by Mike Haggerty

There aren't many curling facilities that have to cope with external temperatures of over 30 degrees centigrade, nor where participants arrive in shorts, singlets and flip-flops, but these are the daily realities for the pioneers who have set up Curling WA, based at the brand-new Cockburn Ice Arena (pictured), on the outskirts of Western Australia's capital city, Perth.

Elliott Douglas, who moved to WA some ten years ago from Aboyne in Aberdeenshire, Scotland, is the Chair of Curling WA, which he incorporated in March 2015, while the Cockburn Ice Arena was formally opened in October 2015. Now, with support from both the Australian Curling Federation and the World Curling Federation, the new club and ice rink are working together to give curling a strong base in a part of the world more usually associated with Aussie Rules football and cricket test matches at the world-famous WACA.

I caught up with Elliott at the club's first come-and-try session of 2016, with a couple of dozen players waiting to get onto the ice:

So how did it all start? Although Scottish, Elliott had not been a curler before. He explains, "it started as a joke - 'how could us guys, past our sporting prowess, still compete?'. We looked at summer sports, but Aussies are too good at summer sports, so we looked at the winter sports and curling came to mind. I started to investigate, to see if there was an Australian Curling Federation. We saw there was curling on the east coast but not on the west coast, so I thought this was an opportunity and I made contact with the Australian Curling Federation." Elliott, who runs his own oil and gas consultancy locally, continued, "I've invested a fair bit in it and thankfully we've had assistance from the Australian Curling Federation and the World Curling Federation, to help us get started."

So, how has the club managed to make an impact? Elliott explains, "we've been gathering interest initially through our own contacts. We've had special tops made and folks see us wearing them and ask us what it's all about."

In addition, there is a Facebook page and a website, and Elliott confirms there has been some traffic through these, especially the Facebook page

He continues, "I think that Perth is uniquely placed for sourcing curling talent, with it being the centre of the resources industry in Australia. As a result, there are many Scots, Canadians and Norwegians working in the Mining or Oil & Gas industries."

Curling WA now has 64 stones – enough for four sheets, and the next step forward will be to establish a competition set-up with eight teams involved. "We are going to continue our taster sessions through January and February and then the plan is to have a twenty-week competition season, starting in March.

Summing up his involvement, Elliott says, "the opportunity to introduce a new sport to WA is really exciting and has allowed me to push my energy in a different direction, and give something back to the local community."

It's not all beginners who are becoming involved. Among those at the first session of 2016 was Wyatt Buck, who will be making his fourth appearance in national colours in April this year, as a member of the Australian team competing in the World Senior Curling Championships 2016 in Karlstad, Sweden. If things continue to go well at Cockburn, it seems certain there will be more WA-based curlers following him onto the national and international circuits.

Curling under the stars in Slovenia

by Robert Sušanj

When you start curling from point zero, you have to start with a basic promotion first » Curling? Sport on Ice? Brushes and stones? Hmmm, funny ...! « are the most common responses. Maybe some of them want to know more, but our [Slovenian Curling Association] goal to invite people to come and play, is still far, far away. Now we try to reach our goal in the opposite way, bringing curling closer to the people.

Bled is one of the most beautiful tourist locations in Slovenia. Beautiful lake, with a church on the island and a castle above, is the perfect location for holidays and relaxing walks around the lake. With Sava hotels we have prepared a project “Curling under the stars” which takes place in winter from November 2015 to February 2016 on open ice facility along the footpath.

People find the idea interesting; many of them during the walk around the lake stop there with interest and watch, after a few minutes they want to try curling as well. Even more, staff from different hotels call each other and assemble their own curling teams. Spontaneously they have started with “Inter hotels curling league” and they really enjoy it. Some additional value also comes from Sava hotel management with their special invitation to the public “Come on a date with curling.”

This is a good example of how you can combine interest of hotels, perfect location and promotion of curling. Win - win combination. Try it! Photo: ©Slovenian Curling Association

Curling Night in America

Curling Night in America returns to air January and February 2016.

This year's competition, which was filmed in December 2015 in Eveleth, Minnesota, features both team and mixed doubles action. Competing this year are teams from USA, Japan, China and Scotland.

Episodes are scheduled for the remainder of January and February and are available to view worldwide after broadcast courtesy of NBCSN. For more info visit, <http://worldcurling.org/curlingnight2016>

Hungarian NOC celebrates 120 years

It was my pleasure to travel to Hungary in December to celebrate the Hungarian National Olympic Committee's 120th anniversary and spend time with our friends in the Hungarian Curling Association

The open air winter sports promotion fest in the City park of Budapest where Hungarian curlers were playing and teaching children how to play was a particular highlight of this trip.

Remembering David B Smith

History courtesy of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club

I was saddened to hear of the passing of David Smith, who was a keen curler, collector and historian, in December.

David began curling in Edinburgh at the old Haymarket Rink in 1963 with Coates Curling Club, the actual successor of the famous Duddingston Curling Society. In order to be able to enjoy more curling he and a legal friend instituted the Abbotsford Curling Society. He moved to Troon in 1976 and joined Ayr CC and Troon Portland CC. He was also a Trustee of the Scottish Curling Trust, set up by the RCCC

David had always been interested in history – This interest involved the collection of curling stones, paintings, books, photographs, medals, in short, anything connected with curling. He also compiled a long list of curling places in Scotland which evolved into the Historical Curling Places website

David also wrote a comprehensive history of the game, Curling: An Illustrated History, published in 1981. He wrote many articles on curling in newspapers, and magazines, particularly The Scottish Curler, and has regularly made major contributions to the Curling History Blog

David was a larger than life character, a generous man, a great raconteur and had curling in his heart.

My thoughts are with his wife, children and grandchildren.

“Iceless” curling equipment offer for Member Associations

We have teamed up with Rock Solid Productions Inc to help grow curling and increase its accessibility around the globe.

Rock Solid Productions Inc. are a Canadian company, formed in 2008, that specialise in “iceless” curling products that can be used for curling promotions, where ice access is limited.

As preferred development partner of the WCF this partnership offers Member Associations (MA) significantly reduced prices on Rock Solid’s Street Curling and Floor Curl products and the ability to use Development Assistance Programme (DAP) funding towards purchase of them.

These products have gained popularity since featuring on Big Brother Canada and, have been used as event entertainment at two Super Bowls to date. Also, in partnership with Curling Canada the products are used to introduce curling to around 200,000 school children each year.

Rock Solid Productions Inc. have developed a truly unique and entertaining product that takes our sport into new markets, where ice is limited or unavailable. This partnership will be particularly valuable for countries new to curling.

As well as their “iceless” products MAs can utilise Rock Solid Productions Inc. expertise for organising events to attract new sponsors and curlers, with the aim of helping MAs generate additional revenue to develop the game.

On announcing this partnership Chad McMullan, Rock Solid Productions Inc. owner and President, said: "We are very excited about this new relationship with the WCF and look forward to helping grow the game around the globe. This will allow us to reach even more curling nations and provide them with valuable tools and expertise to promote the sport within their regions."
